

Tools For The Study Coordinator - Life Evaluation Assessment –

Our guest speaker for this teleclass is Linda Zimmer. Linda is a Business & Personal Coach who can help you get things done! Learn how.

Do you want to make more money while enjoying a lower stress environment?

Does the prospect of discovering your life's purpose and passion excite you?

Are you willing to take on new concepts and stretch beyond your comfort zone?

If you answered any of these questions with a "Yes" then Linda Zimmer could be the answer to helping you achieve more of what you want from life.

Since 1999 Linda has been coaching business owners and professionals who want more time to do the things they love. Working together in partnership, Linda helps her clients design a balanced business and personal life by incorporating strategies, methods and practices that make them more effective, more productive, and more successful.

Through her decades of experience in industry and her years as a business coach, Linda has identified the areas where problems most often arise. By directing her client's intention on these critical success factors, Linda helps them gain the most improvement in the shortest amount of time. These are the areas where Linda and her clients most often focus their attention:

- Increased Productivity
- Time Management and Project Management
- Client Development and Management
- Team Building and Management
- Communication Skills
- Relationship Enhancement
- Career Change and Life Transition

Linda describes her process this way: "We'll prioritize your life and career goals and find the optimum ways to apply your talents toward achieving your objectives. We'll address life's challenges with the approach best suited for you. I'll help you find the path and the direction that encompasses your entire life, and not just one or two problem areas."

To help you determine areas in your own life where you might consider taking positive actions, Linda is offering a Free Life Assessment Survey. You can download the survey from Linda's website at www.LindaZimmer.com.

If gaining prowess in time management, personal productivity, team building, communications skills, and ways to ensure financial freedom are of interest, then contact Linda Zimmer who can provide the guidance to make it happen.
